The Base Camp Cabin

OUR STORY

We are a collective of architects, builders and creatives, passionate about good design for the great outdoors. Our goal is to connect as many people to the outdoors as possible. Bivvi began in 2020 in the Pacific Northwest when two friends sought out to build a wilderness retreat inspired by the backcountry huts, fire towers, and yurts throughout the Northwestern United States. Since our founding our company has gone on to design and build our sustainable high quality cabins for customers all over the United States, shipping from our headquarters in beautiful Sisters, Oregon.

SO, WHAT'S A BIVVI?

The name Bivvi is derived from the word "bivouac," a small shelter that can be easily packed and deployed in the wilderness. Each cabin and structure we make embodies this idea of compact, functional and purpose built design. The Bivvi Cabin combines mobility with classic cabin design, a true first of it's kind structure.

COMMITMENT TO THE LAND & IT'S PEOPLE

As a company we pledge to embody responsible land development by creating a low impact structures and working with land owners to develop in environmentally sustainable methods. We proudly work with local trades and source our materials from Pacific Northwest suppliers, ensuring that we give back to our community through our build process. We respect indigenous land and always encourage ecologically conscious methods of planning as part of our core practice.
